D. T. MOORE.

At Wednesday evening the funeral of Bo. Thomas, at Barnesville on Saturday evening last, we were impressed with the peaceful and quiet appearance of the burying ground. A holy calm pervades the place, making it a desirable resort for the friends of the departed. Ah, "down to the pillow of the grave there comes no haunting dream of woe." But there remains one duty to be performed by the survivors after the body of a friend is lowered to its last resting place, and the memory of that friend lowered to its resting place in the heart. It remains for them to give evidence to the world of their affection by erecting a suitable tablet to the memory of departed worth. Our friend Evans, in Barnesville, stands ready to furnish all kinds of Monuments, Tombs, Head & Foot Stones, executed in the best style. He is doing a good business, but he can do more. His shop is a few doors west of the Post Office.

See another column may be found the advertisement of the "Forest Wine," Fluid Extract of "Buchu," and Fluid Extract Sarsaparilla, which are ready for us to give these medicines the usual patient in "St. John," that the quick nostrums of the day get to make them sell, and if my medical virtues are too well known, "St. John," persons afflicted with diseases for which they are "regularly" well find them here. I am also engaged in giving lectures on the art of using them, as they are safe, speedy and certain in performing cures. A. C. MARTIN & CO., Sole Agents for Belmont Co.

An enterprising contemporary who, no doubt, feels his indignation welling up from his honest heart against us, for past favors, takes us to task for the nature of our advertising. He is perfectly welcome to all he can make on that branch of business against us'

DEATHS.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. MARY WELSH, wife of Judge John Welsh of this vicinity, departed this life on Monday the 14th inst., in the 41st year of her age.

Mrs. Welsh and her husband became members of the M. E. Church in 1835, when the Rev. David C. Merriman was in charge of the St. Clairsville circuit, during an extensive revival upon the portion of the circuit in which they resided. Mrs. Welsh evinced her attachment to the principles of divine truth by persevering attention to the active duties of life and her consistent practice of her religious obligations. She was an affectionate wife, a tender mother, devoting all her energies to the welfare of her numerous family and esteemed by all for her kind and social qualities.

She leaves a husband and nine children & numerous relatives to mourn her somewhat early departure, but leaves them also the consolation of believing that she is now in a higher and holier sphere of endless life, with a bright example of truthfulness and integrity left for them to follow, that they also may be ready when the time of their change shall come.

Her funeral took place on the next day after her death with appropriate religious services. Her remains were deposited on her last resting place on a beautiful mound on the farm of her husband near the line of the Central Ohio Rail Road, attended by a large concourse of sympathizing friends and neighbors.—CON.

On the morning of the 17th inst., of Scarlet Fever, after a short illness, JOHN SYLVANS, son of Samuel M. and Pleasant Ellen Thompson, of Richland Tp., aged 2 years and nine months.
